FARM BUILDINGS BURN R. W. Cheney Suffers Considerable Loss by Fire. Caused by Oil Stove Explosion

Late last Friday afternoon the house, were toatally destroyed by fire, together with practically all the contents.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheney were in Morrisville Friday and returned at about 4:30 this beautiful lake. in the afternoon. Mr. Cheney started a fire in the oil stove on the back veranda and went to the barn. In a short time Mrs. Cheney's mother discovered that the woodwork behind the stove was on fire and notified her daughter. Mrs. Cheney's cries were heard by Mr. Cheney, who hastened to the house. Upon his arrival the fire had gained such headway that his efforts to smother the flames with blankets and rugs proved futile and guest of his nephew, S. B. Waite, soon the flames shot through the open windows into the house and in a short time was beyond control. Mrs. Cheney bury this week. tried to telephone to W. G. Baker, a near neighbor, but was driven from the telephone by the flames and smoke. It is supposed that the oil stove exploded.

The flames spread to the shed and horse barn, which were in close proximity with such rapidity that Mr. Cheney was unable to save anything, and the loss included all household goods, clothng, etc., as well as the contents of the horse barn and shed. In the shed was a large amount of new farm implements, including a mowing machine, horse-power, gasolene engine, McCormick harves ter, barrows, manure spreader, etc. In Mass., were at the home of their cousin, the horse barn was a covered buggy, ex- Mrs. Lizzie White, Monday. press wagon, sleighs, buffalos, blankers, etc. A few chairs and a very little clothing was saved from the house, but everything else was lost, even a new suit for their son, a new hat and other articles purchased in Morrisville that day. There was also included in the loss, eleven pails of fine maple sugar and a large quantity of preserves, the result of many hard days' work by Mrs. Cheney during the past few weeks. About 100 cords of wood burned.

Mr. Cheney carried insurance on the ouildings and contents, but as the buildings were in first-class condition the loss to Mr. and Mrs Cheney is a severe one. as the amount will but partially cover the loss. Mr. Cheney and family are stopping at the Baker house. They expeet to rebuild as soon as possible.
